Simon Parmenter MIBS AMPS Sound Mixer

I have worked full time in Television Sound for 27 years, primarily on location. I trained with the BBC and remained with them until 1992. I have worked on the full range of broadcast projects with a bias towards factual programming. I own a full set of up to date stereo documentary equipment and keep in touch with current developments in both cameras and sound. I believe that the role of a good recordist goes far beyond recording excellent sound; in addition I aim to contribute both editorially and logistically. I have worked on some very sensitive films including the RTS award winning "Story of Child B" for Panorama.

In 2003 I spent 5 months in Maine USA as sole Unit 1 sound recordist on Colonial House, an 8 part series of 1 hour programmes charting the experiences of a whole village living as 17th Century colonists in the New World. The entire project was shot as actuality, primarily with one Digibeta crew. It aired in May 2004 on PBS in the States and was nominated for an Emmy. It was also transmitted on Channel 4 in 2005 reversioned to 6 programmes.

I have filmed in over 40 countries across 6 continents and in 30 of the USA states
I have a full driving licence and a US I Visa
I am a member of the Institute of Broadcast Sound, the Association of Motion Picture Sound and BECTU
