Reinhardt F

Rodney was born in the UK and is a child of the 60s.

Initially educated in Electronics as this was a prerequisite for being admitted to the BBC in London as a Trainee Sound Engineer where he studied under amongst others, Prof. Dave Fisher (BBC and Head of Tonmeister Dept at Surrey University), Michael Talbot-Smith and was also greatly inspired and helped by Tony Waldron.

Rodney later further studied electronics and spent 11 years designing electronics for medical applications at Aalborg University but sound engineering was never far from his heart and so he returned to audio, initially starting Reinhardt Microphone Windscreens.

Rodney is a member of the AES and also a member of the Institute of Engineers and Technicians.

In his spare time he teaches and holds seminars on Sound Engineering & Electronics and is involved in low noise pre-amp design as a consultant.

Rod has lived the past 25 years in Northern Jutland in the small village of Kvissel with his partner Tove.

He is very active in the local community presiding on several committees. He enjoys his hobby of mountain biking and describes himself as hopelessly loving all kind of animals. He is fluent in English & Danish.
